What makes you come Alive ?

I enjoy supporting people embark on an inward journey, to discover, re-connect and celebrate their own Divinity. Coaching is a modality that supports me engage with this intention, of raising the consciousness of all of humanity, one soul at a time and I refer to this my life's work. Beyond Coaching, I experience this connection with Music that uplifts me and supports me reconnecting with my own Divinity instantaneously.

Pivotal turning Point in your life?

In 2012, I went on a Yatra to Kailash Mansarovar, I am not a trekker and this was my first climb !! As I connect the dots backwards, I see it as a Pivotal turning point. My Guruji, said we are going to Kailash, and you are coming. I said OK and just went with the flow. On that Yatra, I surrendered to love and life at the lotus feet of my Spiritual Master. My life has never been the same again.

I discovered, what my calling in Coaching and I experienced it as my homecoming, the space where my spiritual and material pursuits merged into one.

My life became an Offering.

An Act of Kindness You'll Never Forget

There are many, the one that floats to the top in the moment – is from a participant at a recent Coach Training Workshop we held. The participant attended the program, receiving a scholarship, as the work he did had huge social impact and the program we were offering would be a potent lever to accelerate his journey. Having immersed himself in the program, he received it in its totality. A couple of months later he deposited some money into our bank account, we had no knowledge of or expectation of the same – what touched me the most was his act of kindness in offering back what he received. We rolled his contribution forward, to support many more through our Scholarship Program.

One Thing on Your Bucket List

Is a prayer for all of humanity to be guided to their Spiritual Master, so that they can discover their brilliance, live it, celebrate it and offer it as a gift to this wonderful world we all inhabit for a short time.

One-line Message for the World

You are complete, You are Divine, You are THAT which you are seeking.
Reconnect with your Divinity and make space for its expression.
